Hi, my name is Robbe Van Loo.

robbes integrated development environment (IDE) is a directory I made to share what I am learning in the work I do. My notes involve personal projects as well experiences and thoughts I encounter in my daily life. The interests I pursue and most of my initiatives are in the fields of development work, mainly in developing areas. I regularly invite people to discuss the progress being made. (see talks)

This directory is an open search for an ever-changing personal identity. My mission is to do the best work I can to make it accessible for every human being to fully participate in society.
